Flexibility

SSUMING there is good foundation for the report that the United States has informed Chiang Kai-shek Chinese Nationalists must hold themselves responsible for the defence of Matsu and Quemoy, this indicates an important and intangible shift in American policy vis-a-via the Formosa Straits.

Even more significant, it is a very definite slap in the face for the Knowlands and the McCarthys who, with loud and persistent voice, have been demanding in and out of Congress categorical commitments by the Eisenhower administration the offshore to defend islands. In effect the President has repudiated the extreme right-wingers and has let it be known that neither he nor his closest advisers are prepared to apply policies calculated to plunge the United States into an unwanted and unnecessary war. ,, MPORTANT also is the emphasis which is now being laid by Washington on the question of reactions by America's allies to Far East policies which leave no escape from commitments. The latest policy forecast represents a decided move towards the British viewpoint. This is not to suggest that the revision stems from, any British Foreign Office presbut it does indicate that President Eisenhower and his colleagues are constantly reappraising situation, and that their approach to the Formosa Straits problem is flexible enough to permit policy adjustments without sacrific-

Strong Comment By Adlai Stevenson On Formosa Strait Policy

OFFSHUKE

Chicago, Apr. 11. Mr Adlai Stevenson said tonight that the Soviet Union should be invited to "declare its position" over Quemoy and Matsu, the Nationalist-held islands off the coast of China.

In a nation-wide radio broadcast Mr Stevenson, Democratic candidate for the Presidency in 1952, also said the United States should enlist other nations in an open declaration condemning the use of force in the Formosa Strait.

His broadcast was in response to hundreds of requests for a pro-

Preview Of China's Bandung Policy

Tokyo, Apr. 11. A Communist Chinese verbal broadside today charged America with "military aggression, economic exploitation and colonialism" in Asia, thus giving a preview of Red China's policy for the Afro-Asian conference next week.

The blast at the United States came in article in the Peking People's Daily and was broadcast by Peking Radio and monitored in Tokyo.

Mr Feng Chih-tan, the Communist writer, laid down the line Communist Chinese leaders; including the Foreign Minister, Mr Chou En-lai, probably will take at Bandung, Indonesia, when the conference gets underway on April 18.
AGGRESSION CHARGE

The writer, quoted by the Communist broadcast, charged that United States aid to Asian countries "is intended for military 'aggression."

The Voyage Of Captain Juan Bouilla

A 20ft, sailing boat towing a small dinghy has just completed a remarkable Atlantic crossing with 39 men and one woman aboard. They came from Spain. Difficult economic conditions decided them to seek work in the rich lands of Venezuela where several of their friends had previously settled.

Captain Juan Renevier Bouilla said his ship, the San Antonia de Pourres, left the Canary Islands on February 28 for Venezueia. Thirteen days later after a battle with high seas, rough winds and incessant rain the ship ran short of food. Captain Bouilla said bloodshed and mutiny were narrowly averted as a result of the calmness and bravery of the only woman aboard, Maria Santana.

They met an American ship on March 13 the captain of which gave them fresh supplies and seven days later they drifted into the Berbice River and tied up outside the City of Georgetown. Shore leave was refused to them and a riot inspired by Maria's husband, Francisco Ramirez, broke out. Ramirez and his wife were held in custody for deporting back to Spain but after 24 hours they were put back on board again and the little-ship left on the last 1,000 miles of its journey to Venezuela.

FEWER FRENCH TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Paris, Apr. 11. LURENCH traffic authorities reported that weekend traffic deaths were very low this year compared to other Easter seasons, but they feared tonight's homeward bound crowds might raise the overall total sharply.

By 2 p.m. today, 24 persons had died and 30 had been injured on the roads -- a figure much lower proportionately than last year's tell at the same time, officials said. Not a single serious accident was reported in the Seine-et-Olse or -Seine-et-Marne De-

How To Treat Convulsions

By H. N. Bundeson, M.D.

CONVULSION 13. baby is a frightening thing for a mother and father.

While you should take immediate action to aid your tot, don't become unduly alarmed. If you handle the situation quickly and properly, a convulsion is usually not as serious -a matter as it may appear.

Sometimes a convulsion, or even several of them, will occur at the beginning of, or during an illness. Diarrhoea or some other intestinal upset might bring your baby suddenly develops a high he might if he is coming down with a contagious disease, he may be stricken with a convulsion. Among other causes are brain infections, brain injuries or. epilepsy.

BEGINS SUDDENLY

Generally, a convulsion will pegin suddenly with little or no warning. A slight twitching of the baby's hand, feet or face muscles usually is the first sign. This twitching probably will spread to most of the muscles throughout his body. His body probably will become stiff, his face will sweat and his lips may become blue. His eyes will stare and roll upward. His head may jerk, and he may clench his fists. He will be unconscious during the at-

The convulsion may continue for hours, or it may last only for a few minutes, even without treatment.

Your first step, of course, should be to call your doctor. While you're waiting for him, you can wet the baby's skin thoroughly with a mixture of half warm water and half alcohol. Then wrap him in a tlanket and put him to bed.

If you don't have any alcohol in the house, place him in a bath of tepid water. The water should be about 90 to 100 degrees. You can test it with your elbow. Make sure it feels comfortable.

KEEP CLOSE WATCH

Keep the baby in the water for about five or ten minutes. If the convulsion stops before this. take him out at once. Wrap him in a blanket, place him in bed. Watch him carefully. You might place a cold cloth on his head. as he lies in bed. If he has teeth, it might be a good idea to place a wooden stick between them to keep him from biting his tongue.

Handle him gently, because his nervous system is excited. Noise, bright lights and rough handling might start another convulsion. Therefore you should keep him as quiet as possible; keep his room dark and quiet, too. An enema, as a rule, will only disturb a baby.

Don't feed him for at least two hours following an attack.

Make him stay in bed for several days. If necessary, your doctor can give your baby an anaesthetic to stop a convulsion, and he can prescribe the proper medicines to keep it from returning.

Wolverhampton Wanderers Still In The Race For League Championship

London, Apr. 11. A goal three minutes from time by the young halfback, Ron Flowers, against Aston Villa today kept Wolverhampton Wanderers in the race for the English League Football Championship.

By beating Villa 1-0, Wolverhampton moved into second place five points behind the leaders, Chelsea, and with two games in hand of the London club still have an outside chance of retaining the trophy they won last year, Chelses, who were without a fixture today, have three more games to play to complete their progrumme of 42 matches.

'The Rock' Took Walcott's Title With One Punch

A rope-burn on Rocky Marciano's body came near to bringing his boxing career to a halt. His mother, the big-framed Italian woman from whom he gets his physical toughness, used to inspect his body for injuries every time he went home after one of his early fights.

"I used to have to bare my chest to see there were no brushes, but when she saw that rope-burn I was very close to having to call the whole thing off," said Rocky.

At that time he used to tell his mother that he was getting as much as 50 and 60 dollars for a fight. Actually, it was no more than 10 or 15 dollars, but he used to give his mother all he earned—and say he was keeping the rest.

Manchester City Tipped To Win-The Cup Final

By ARCHIE QUICK

So it is Manchester City versus Newcastle United for Wembley's Cup Final this year and I think Manchester will win with some ease.

An interesting angle to the clash is the number of ex-Army First Representative Eleven players it brings together—six of them. Ronnie Simpson, the goal-keeper, Bob Stokee, the centre-half, Vic Keeble at centre-forward and Willie Hannah at inside left are in the Newcastle side and Jimmy Meadows, right back, and Bobbie Johnstone, inside left, are in the Manchester ranks. During their National Service they all played good football in the Army's red shirts in the last few seasons.

West Indies 73 For 2 In Second Test

Port of Spain, Apr. 11. Heavy a rain and light restricted play to less than an hour and a half," West Indies scoring 73 for two wickets on the first day of the Second Test against Australia here today.

West Indies, who were beaten by nine wickels in the First Test, had no hesitation in choosing to bat on a perfect pitch when they won the tost. But only 20 runs had been scored in 22 minutes when rain stopped play.

It continued until after lunch and the delay lasted over four hours, the final decision being left to the Umpires as the Captains failed to agree.

When play resumed, Ray Kelth Miller Lindwall and bowled with fire Both bowled bumpers and with only 19 runs added, "Lindwall yorked Jeff Stollmeyer for 14. One run later Lindwall had Holt caught for 25 and West Indies were 40 for two wickets.

1956 OLYMPICS Brundage To See Premier Menzies

Canberra, Apr. 11. Olympic Federation President Avery Brundage was today expected to appeal to Prime Minister Robert 'G. Menzies to intervene speed up preparations for next year's Olympic Games at Melbourne.

Mr Brundage has several statements here criticising what he called lack of progress made in preparations for the Olympics.

Mr Brundage said other big cities all over the world were still prepared to spend $20,-000,000 even at this stage to hold the Olympics.

Mr Brundage was scheduled to see Premier Menzies tomorrow to discuss the "whole subject of the games."

What's best in Kowloon? Snookers Can Be Overdone

If you learnt to play billiards before you learnt snooker, you may have gained a better knowledge of angles. If so, this will prove invaluable to you when dealing with snookers, which demand a good knowledge of how balls come away from cushions.

I have seen many players forge ahead in a match game and display some brilliant potting—only to give point after point away in the final stages by an inability to deal with snookers. Their confidence is shaken and the game stolen from them simply because the other man has a greater all-round knowledge of the "game and can use that knowledge to his advantage.

I am dealing with the straight- and, secondly, he retained forward snookers which should mental photograph of the not deter any player of average the balls were running, the

I've already said that a knowledge of angles is the important factor in this department of the game. Only by careful study and practice will you learn where to hit a cushion or cushions order to get an indirect shot on the object-ball. Practise overcoming snookers, but also watch how the cue-ball comes away from a cushion during the course of the match you are playing -particularly if it is taking place on a strange table.

actual centenary day of issue of Norway's first postage stamp is, in fact, past, It was on January 3, 1855, that first postage stamps, now eferred to in philately circles as Norway No. 1," were licked and stuck on letters in Norway. The introduction of the postage stamp in Norway, in itself a innovation, was accompanied by an even more important reform—namely, the first uniform inland postage rates in

The Norwegian postage law of 1837 had laid down rates for sending letters which were based on the distance to be covered. The rates increased for every 60 (about 38 miles) to be covered and with the huge distances in Norway, sending letters was an expensive business. REFORM IN 1848 Reform in 1848 brought costs down somewhat by making two definite rates, one for distance of up to 200 kilometres (about 120 miles) and one for distances over 200 killometres. With the 1855 postage stamps, came a uniform rate all over the country. And the reduction was considerable. . The stamp cost 4 skilling—the skilling was the coinage in use at that time—and was equivalent to not quite twopence, or about 15 present-day Norwegian ocre, Inland postage today costs 30 ocre.

The first 4 skilling stamp was blue with the Norwegian coat of arms, a rampant lion topped by a crown, in a circle surrounded by artistic decoration and the words "Frimacrke" (stamp) and

"4 Skilling." There will naturally be a large number of collections of Norwegian stamps on view at the exhibition. These will include certain examples of printing errors, such as the Norway No. known as the "doubled-legged" stamps issued during the German occupation of Norway in World

"The not less memorable fast as the American loan."

Sir Winston was intimately familiar with the British possessions of the East. As young officer, he saw action in various campaigns in India and Africa, often combining the role of soldier with that of newspaper correspondent and usually publishing his observations and experiences in book form afterwards. In the Sudan during a campaign against the fanatical Dervishes, he participated in one Britain's last great cavalry charges.

He also served a brief term, shortly after the turn of the century, as Secretary in the Colonial Office.

Thus Sir Winston's political life stretched from the last days of British Empire glory to the fulfillment of the modern English Commonwealth theory-the loose association of self-governing states held together by interests and common for India—common except to the British allegiance

ment between 1900 and 1910. The bonds of imperial control had been broken in only three countries prior to these changes: in America, where the Revolutionary War taught the British their first lesson in the dangers of empire domination; in Canada, which gained freedom but remained within the empire in 1849; and the Cape Colony, which received parliamentary government in 1852. Southern Rhodesia, Ireland and Egypt achieved self-government in the years shortly preceding the second World War-the latter two severing all connections with Britain. The final great wave of nationalism broke over the once-vast domain in the postwar years. Sir Winston was forced to stand on the sidelines as the Labour government launch ed the policies which brought about the end of British control over India, Burma. Pakistan, Ceylon, Suez and the Sudan.

Stirs Up Kenya

Nairobi, Apr. 11. By charging that labour conditions, in Kenya are "lousy," a Canadian trade union leader, Jim Bury, has stirred up a storm of anger pressure on aircraft and in this colony.

Mr Bury lives in Kenya .28 what he calls an "ambassador of the international confederation Trade Unions". He is helping the Kenya Federation of Trade Unions, which claims J. C. Case, Lily-Tulip 50,000 African members most of whom are non-paying.

In a recent article in the Journal of the American Congress of Industrial Organisations Mr Bury severely criticised labour conditions here. He wrote: "Take my word for it they are lousy."

His article was reproduced by Nairobi's two leading newspapers and immediately set off a controversy.' Some persons are demanding that he be deported.

NATIVE RESERVES

'A small European settler group of 40,000 menopolise all the good land in Kenya," wrote Canadian, . "and 5,000,000 Africans are trying to eke an existence out of the native restricts,

"The minimum wage, often the maximum, is $7 a month. The chances for advancement are practically nii. On seven dellars you are lucky to stay alive."

Mr Bury also charged that half of the full-time and part-time Kenya Trade Union officials were detained during the emergency and that despite many requests only about one quarter of them had been cleared.

"One of our union officials was shot in the leg by some trigger-happy policeman," he "The guy confessed months This kind of atmosphere virtually paralysis trade union growth.

"Many workers feel now that participation means a che-way trip to the detention camp. The police and Army actions have 20 rails holding union cards.

Mr Bury said that Africans hewers of wood, and drawers of water and were dissatisfied with unequal representation.

One newspaper charged that Mr Bury was seeking United Nations intervention here. It added that the Kenya Trade Union Federation had sent a resolution to the International Federation of Trade Unions asking for an investigation of "the imprisonment of Africans without trial" and "forced

The resolution could be placed before the "Confederation's next meeting at Vienna in May.

The newspaper commented: "The resolution could embarrass the Kenya government and wreck the post-emergency plans International Harvester for permanent detention of incorrigible Mau Mau."
